

Shoplifting: the crime everybody pays for

By CAROLE LANGE

After an exhaustive two weeks spent trying to profile the "average" shoplifter in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area, three facts are certain: the offender is an 11-45-year-old person, usually with enough money to pay for the stolen item, and always believes he won't be caught.

Shoplifting is not a crime that is restricted to so-called "hardened criminals." Anyone can commit it. However, all consumers are victimized by the crime since stores must raise their prices to augment profit loss from pilferage.

In interviews with managers of six area grocery and retail stores, all said shoplifting is a crime that's been around for a long time, but is noticed more now as the value of the items taken continues to increase and cut into a store's profit.

Don Woodall, Food Center manager, said the dollar loss from shoplifting in his store sometimes reaches two-three percent of an actual week's sales.

"When you're working on a 15 percent profit margin, before any bills are paid, that three percent can be hard to absorb," Woodall said.

At Winn Dixie, manager Bobby Compretta reported shoplifting up 15 percent over last year. TG&Y manager M.F. Howard in Our Shopping Center reports shoplifters take from $20,000 to $30,000 a year in merchandise.

Shoplifters cannot be categorized by a specific age, race, or sex.

National store manager Charlie Kornman said white women between the ages of 45-50 have recently been guilty of the majority of shoplifting attempts in his store.

"Usually, they have more than enough money to pay for the item," Kornman added.

What shoplifters take is apparently governed by whim and by the value placed on an item by the person taking it.

At National, the main target of shoplifters presently is meat, Kornman reported. Previously, though, it was cigarettes and may shift to health and beauty aids, Kornman said.

Meat and cigarettes were most often taken from other food stores, also.

In an effort to prevent cigarette thefts, Food Center resorted to placing cartoned cigarettes in a glass case accessible only to one cashier, according to Woodall.

"It causes some hardship on our customers," Woodall admits, "but it's worth it to cut down on theft."

Many crimes of shoplifting (and it is a crime punishable by as much as five years in jail) are committed by juveniles.

"In number, children are the greatest offenders here," a spokesman for TG&Y in Bay St. Louis said.

It was also the store's policy NOT to prosecute juvenile offenders in most cases, he said.

"It depends on their attitude," he said, "but usually we call the child's parents and then ask the local police to lecture him on the seriousness of the crime."

When he talks with the children, Bay Police Chief Billy Carbonette said, he often suggests that they get parttime jobs to pay for the item they've stolen. Carbonette said he also feels that if parents were more observant, there would be less instances of shoplifting by children. Carbonette said he did not advocate parental spying but suggested parents question children about where a new item came from, then check out the story.

According to the store managers, many juveniles attempt shoplifting on a dare from their companions.

"The bad thing is, if it works once, they try it again and it turns into a profitable habit," one manager remarked.

Ronnie Slocum, manager of A&P, said most of the store's shoplifting incidences occur at night when crews were cut down. Slocum said the store was experiencing a mild increase as a result of staying open later hours.

All store managers, with one exception, said they did prosecute shoplifters. The methods of catching shoplifters were similar: Most relied on store personnel to report a suspected shoplifter. In all of the stores, the shoplifter was allowed to go through the check-out line with the stolen item, before being apprehended outside to give everyone the benefit of the doubt.

For first offenders, sentences can be as much as a $300 fine or up to six months in the county jail. The possible fine increases to $500 or a year in jail for those convicted of a second offense. Under both first and second offenses the crime remains a misdemeanor, yet a third conviction for shoplifting becomes a felony and carries a five year jail sentence.

Last year, the Waveland and Bay St. Louis police departments handled a combined total of 33 shoplifting cases.

That number could double this year as store managers are working with police to obtain more prosecutions and reverse any increased losses.

A backward glance---

Then, when she's sure no one is looking, this shoplifter adds another item to the collection of stolen merchandise in her purse. Shoplifting, a big business in the Bay-Waveland area, is a crime that everybody pays for.

Hancock hospital establishes 'cash' policy for emergency room

Emergency Room patients arriving at Hancock General Hospital for treatment will now have to pay cash for these services.

Mrs. Mona Santiago, administrator, told hospital board members Tuesday that the emergency room had lost some $70,000 over the last year as the result of bad debts.

Most of these debts, Mrs. Santiago said, arose out of a failure of various insurance policies to pay emergency room services, resulting in the necessity of billing the patient direct, sometimes months later.

"The implementation of the cash only policy will not mean Hancock General will refuse to file insurance claims, but rather that it will file on behalf of the patient, after the hospital has been paid its due fees," said Mrs. Santiago.

The administrator allowed a waiver would be made in the case of dire emergency, such as automobile accidents or the like, and for Medicare and Medicaid patients.

In a further move to reduce unpaid accounts, the board voted to permit the billing of "in-patients" on a weekly basis.

The board indicated it felt this move would allow the patient to realize the difference in amounts being paid by any insurance coverage and the balance due by them on a personal basis.

"This should increase our collections considerably," Mrs. Santiago said, adding, "Many of our patients do not realize how quickly hospital bills add up, especially when they have been in for some time."

"A weekly payment of any balance due will enable patients to meet their obligations as they go along and prevent the 'end of tenure' type bill presentation, which is often quite a surprise."

Hospital operating costs were illustrated to trustees, when the administrator asked permission to pay a bill for replacement of two X-ray tubes. The bill from CGR Medical Services of New Orleans amounted to $5,601.92. The rest of January's claim docket totaled nearly $46,000.

After hearing from board attorney

Sam Favre that no legal ramifications were involved, the board also gave approval for sponsorship of a coed scout Explorer Troop. The troop will meet once or twice a month at the facility for group talks of medical interests.

Trustee Conrad Mauffray cited the sponsorship as being of an educational nature, and in accord with the best interests of the hospital.

The free blood pressure reading clinic came under discussion, and trustees, feeling it was both advantageous to the community and good public relations for the hospital, voted to maintain its operation even while acknowledging it may cause some inconvenience to the staff.

Opting for a monthly clinic from the present bi-monthly affair, Mrs. Santiago set the third Wednesday as being most suitable.

A progress report on the obstetrical department's reinstatement was presented by Mrs. Santiago. It showed room purpose shifts, personnel progress, and the availability of anesthetists.

The report also served to explain a storeroom cost hike of some $5,000 for January which was spent for purchase of the necessary OB Department supplies.

Pediatrics is being relocated to rooms 19 and 20, OB is headed for rooms 37 and 38, and isolation is shifting to room 36, the report announced.

The inhalation therapy department is also being readied for relocation within the structure.

No decision had been reached on the anesthesia coverage, and medical staff approval is still awaited on consultant obstetricians.

The main item of personnel discussion centered around the possibilities of obtaining a Registered Nurse graduate of the University of

Pass Christian developers plan revised proposal for subdivision

By MIKE FLYNN

PASS CHRISTIAN -- A special council meeting called here Tuesday night to consider the City Planning Commission's recommendation on the controversial Parc Christian ended stalemated with the council neither accepting nor rejecting the commission's recommendations.

The review of the Planning Commission's recommendations and report were somewhat upstaged by a new proposal from the developers involved.

Aristide LeFevre speaking on behalf of developer William Braun advised the mayor and aldermen that his parties were prepared to offer concessions to those opposed to the subdivision development in order to gain approval by the community.

The development planned for a beachfront lot on East Scenic Drive has been held up by opponents of the project, who have protested the subdivision of the property into smaller lots for high priced condominium styled homes. The opponents have expressed fear that any subdivision would erode the character of Scenic Drive.

The Planning Commission earlier by a vote of 3-1 (with one abstention) recommended the city not approve the development as proposed. The commission objected to the plans as submitted on grounds that a private access road through the subdivision did not meet subdivision regulations as to width.

Pass Mayor Steve Saucier was first to address the large crowd of interested citizens Tuesday night.

Saucier reiterated his support of the development stressing the need of the city to broaden its tax base.

"I am very favorable toward the development as it stands," Saucier told those present.

The meeting was then devoted to a discussion of the Planning Commission's report of Feb. 2.

Planning & Zoning Commission member George Watson read the commission's entire report on Parc Christian at the request of attorney Randolph C. Jones. The report took issue with the size and nature of the aforementioned private access road through the subdivision, and was rejected on these grounds, according to Watson.

LeFevre speaking on behalf of developer William Braun then stated the revised position of the Parc Christian developers.

LeFevre surprised many of those present by offering to donate to the Pass Historical Society the old Victorian house which stands on the property in question and which has been a sore spot in the entire matter.

LeFevre stated estimates on renovation of the house approached the $150,000 mark and that the parties he represented would be willing to aid the Historical Society in obtaining the necessary financing to move and renovate the house. An offer was also made to discount one of the lots in the subdivision onto which the house might be moved.

State Supreme Court rulings may overturn Moore verdict

Christopher Alvin Moore, convicted of rape and murder by a Hancock County Circuit Court jury last year, may have been illegally indicted by a Jackson County grand jury.

Jackson County Assistant District Attorney Joe Colingo said Tuesday that two cases recently handed down by the State Supreme Court contend that it is illegal for a grand jury to be impaneled, then dismissed and recalled following an intervening court term.

Such was the case in Jackson County when the grand jury, which indicted Moore and approximately 300 others, was impaneled in April, 1976, then dismissed and recalled in September following a June circuit court term.

Colingio said however, that other cases from Jackson County now pending an appeal in the Supreme Court could prove that the grand jury was legally impaneled the second time.

If the Supreme Court rules that the Jackson County grand jury was illegally impaneled, Colingo said, all those indicted can file an error curram novis suit which would allow them to be reindicted and subsequently retried.

Moore, a 23-year old Pascagoula black, was on trial in Hancock County during the October term of Circuit Court for the rape and murder of a white Pascagoula school teacher. He was found guilty and sentenced to death in the gas chamber.

'Bicentennial Ben'

Becky Martel puts the finishing touches on "Bicentennial Ben," a fireplug painted in Benjamin Franklin's likeness, while John Ginn, who took an earlier stint with the paintbrush, lends his advice. The two artists took time out from their duties at Adams Lorraine Florist on Ulfian Ave. to transform Ben from an ordinary fireplug to one with a more "forefatherly fireplug" image. Ben stands sentinel at the south corner of the florist, and since his completion Monday, has caused many passers-by to slow their cars for a better look.

Hancock General receives bomb threat

A bomb threat received by Hancock General Hospital at about 2:30 p.m. yesterday caused considerable discomfort to patients, even though a thorough search of the facility failed to turn up any such evidence.

The caller, described by switchboard operator Melaine San Filippo only as being a male, said that a bomb had been left under the bed of one of the patients. Immediately after being informed of the threat, hospital administrator Mrs. Mona Santiago put an emergency security plan into effect. All ambulatory patients were evacuated into the front lobby, with the removal of the balance of bed-ridden patients into the main hallways.

Hancock sheriff's department personnel and Bay St. Louis police secured the building and searched the surrounding area.

Dr. J. E. Levens, hospital chief of staff, called from the Hancock Red Cross blood drawing at the American Legion hall also reacted to the county medical facility to attend to any additional patient requirements.

Coast insurance women sponsor college

The Insurance Women of Gulf Coast, Sylvia Burns president, has become a sponsor of The College of Insurance located in New York City, N.Y.

The local club is one of four belonging to the National Association of Insurance Women, to recently become sponsors of the college. There are about 30 clubs throughout the United States who now sponsor the college. The Gulf Coast members agreed to become a sponsor at the recommendation of local Public Relations Chairman, Lois Morgan.

Organized in 1940, the National Association of Inurance Women has in excess of 18,000 members in over 350 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, and most recently in the Virgin Islands. National headquarters is located in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Since 1970, telling the story of the undergraduate program at The College of Insurance has been a national public relations project for NAIW. As part of this project, local members visit area high schools and community colleges to discuss career opportunities in the insurance field. They also explain the college's baccalaureate program to potential students and guidance counselors. Educators or students interested in learning more about the college and its work-study program may contact Mrs. Morgan at Stewart Sneed Hewes, Inc., Gulfport.

Quality of life declining?

The "quality of life" in the United States, measured by seven environmental yardsticks, continued on a downward trend in 1975 for the sixth consecutive year, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

The environment suffered setbacks in five of the seven "vital resource areas" surveyed in the conservation organization's seventh annual Environmental Quality (EQ) Index report, published in the current (February-March) issue of NATIONAL WILDLIFE magazine.

It moved ahead in only one area—air quality—and held its own in another, timber resources, while falling behind in water quality, soil, wildlife, minerals and living space, the survey found.

These trends produced a National EQ Index of 350 on a scale where 700 would represent the best possible environment. This is a drop of six points from the 1974 mark and is 45 points below the National EQ Index for 1969, the first year of the NWF survey. All seven indicators have declined since the first survey reported: "America is in trouble...Apathy is our biggest problem."

"It would be nice to report in this year of the American Bicentennial that the quality of life in the United States is quickly on the mend...but unfortunately, such is not the case," NATIONAL WILDLIFE said. As one of the few encouraging signs in a "generally somber picture" the magazine cited the fact that "polls still show undiminished public support for environmental goals."

Here are summaries of the EQ Index findings in each resource area:

AIR QUALITY

Up slightly. Air pollution, which costs $12.3 billion annually in damage to health, property and crops, is diminishing even though the country failed to meet the May 31, 1975, goals decreed by the Clean Air Act of 1970. Sulfur dioxide pollution has been cut by about 25 percent and carbon monoxide by more than 50 percent.

declined by 14 percent and nearly 80 percent of the country's stationary sources of air pollution were either within emission limits or on schedules leading to compliance. Even with these gains, 65 percent of all regions reported pollution in excess of national standards.

TIMBER

No change. More timber is being grown, it is being used more efficiently, and Congress is spending more money on reforestation—$51 million to replant 400,000 acres last year. However, with imports, the U.S. is still using more timber than it cuts and controversy over "multiple use" forest management and clearcutting cloud the future of 92 million acres of forestland owned and managed by the federal government. Operations in nine eastern national forests were curtailed by a court decision that only "mature or dead" trees could be cut.

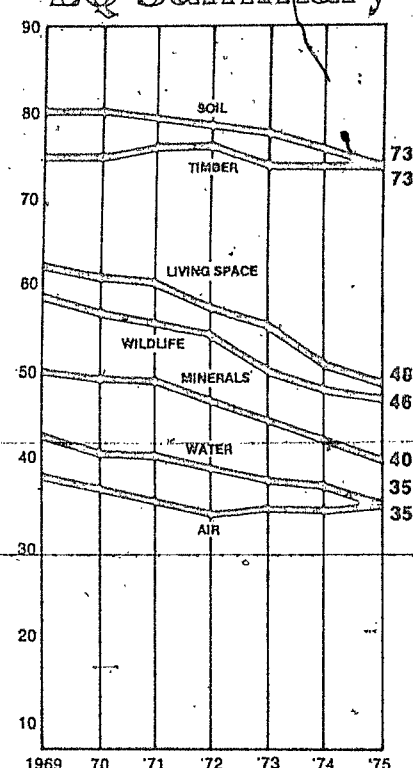

WILDLIFE

Down again. Six animals were added to the Endangered Species list, bringing the total to 126. An additional 65 mammals, 44 birds, 28 reptiles, 26 mollusks, 6 amphibians, 2 fish and 23,842 plant species are being reviewed for possible listing. Loss of habitat is still the "chief threat" to wildlife. About 1.2 million acres of land were converted from rural to urban use while only 86,000 were added to our national refuges. Pesticides are still a "major problem," although lower levels in the food chain have increased the probability of successful reproduction by some birds. Congressional appropriations to acquire and preserve more wildlife habitat is a "critical problem" for the future.

SOIL

Down again. American farmers plowed up five million acres of "soil bank" land and four

National Bicentennial events calendar printed

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) has announced the availability, through the Government Printing Office, of a new edition of the Bicentennial events calendar, and a separate "Master Register of Bicentennial Projects."

The "Master Register of Bicentennial Projects," listing non-event-oriented activities such as books, parks, and buildings, plus details on planning activities, has over 15,000 local, state, national and international projects listed as of January 1, 1976. The 558 page publication costs $4.10 per copy.

The two-volume "Comprehensive Calendar of Bicentennial Events," a February 1976 edition, contains state-by-state details on nearly 11,000 local, state, national and international events. One volume covers states east of the Mississippi and costs $3.40 per copy. The other, covering states west of the Mississippi, costs $3.00.

An index of all 26,000 projects and events detailed in the bigger publications is also available. The index lists titles of projects and events by city and state, and gives the volume and page numbers where details may be found in the primary publications. Titled "Index of Bicentennial Activities," this 216-page reference book costs $2.40.

IRS instructions

answer tax questions

Taxpayers can find answers to most of their tax questions if they take the time to check the instructions found in their tax packages according to William Daniel, IRS district director for Mississippi.

If the tax instructions don't provide the answers, Daniel said, the taxpayers should call the IRS on its toll-free telephone assistance line, 1-800-222-8070, or call 948-4500 in Jackson, or visit the local IRS office.

Taxpayers can also order various extra forms and free

IRS publications by mailing in the order blank found in the tax package. The publications focus on a number of familiar tax subjects including charitable contributions, tax benefits for older Americans, alimony payments, medical deductions, the new housing and earned income credits, and others.

Daniel also said that taxpayers should carefully read the instructions to determine if they can save time by using the Short Form 1040A.

State soybean leaders plan market mission to Europe

Two Mississippi soybean leaders have been selected to participate in the 1976 Elanco Soybean Marketing Mission to Eastern and Western Europe.

They are James Ferguson of Calhoun City, chairman of the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board, and Seymour Johnson of Indianola, president of the American Soybean Association (ASA).

Purpose of the mission, according to Johnson, is to help soybean industry leaders take an active part in assuring continued strong foreign markets for U.S. soybeans. About half of all soybeans produced in the U.S. are exported.

Scheduled for March 7-16, the trip is sponsored by Elanco Products Co., manufacturer of Treflan herbicide. The itinerary includes Germany, Poland and Yugoslavia.

As participants in the mission, Ferguson and Johnson will also have an opportunity to observe firsthand some of the soybean market development activities funded by the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board through the state's half-cent per bushel soybean checkoff.

These market development activities are conducted by ASA in 44 countries in Europe, the Far East, the Mideast and Latin America.

As members of the Elanco mission, Ferguson and Johnson will join soybean leaders from 15 states. They will meet with ASA overseas staff members, agricultural attaches and officials of European government and industry. They will also visit the port of Hamburg, a German margarine plant and Polish livestock operations.

Hospital..

the University of Mississippi's Nurse-Midwifery Program.

An important aspect of the nurse-midwife program, trustees learned, was a new system, whereby her services could be paid for on a split basis between hospital and obstetrician, reducing budget costs.

In association with the obstetrician to whom she is responsible, the nurse-midwife provides care as long as progress of the mother is normal. She cares for the mother during pregnancy and stays with her during labor, providing continuous physical and emotional support. The nurse-midwife also evaluates progress, and manages the labor and delivery, in addition to providing immediate care for the newborn.

No decision had been reached on the anesthesia coverage, and medical staff approval is still awaited on consultant obstetricians applications.

In other matters trustees heard that HGH was reevaluating its employee group medical insurance; agreed to emphasize the time and date of their sessions to attract greater staff and supervisor participation; heard how the mobile x-ray machine was being utilized in cooperation with Mirimar Nursing Home to obtain further revenues.

The inhalation therapy department is also being readied for relocation within the structure.

Subdivision ..

LeFevre also stated that the Parc Christian interests were willing to make some concessions on the question of the size and construction of the private street. This included granting 10 foot easements to the city.

Alderman Charles Logan recommended that the discussion be kept to the business at hand, whether to accept or reject the Planning Commission's review of the matter. Jones agreed with Logan and called for the developers to submit a concrete plan in writing to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Concern was expressed by several citizens over who would buy the lots and what type of homes would be built in the subdivision. It was pointed out that there was already a surplus of good real estate on the Pass Christian market.

Those agreeing with Mayor Steve Saucier called for acceptance and encouragement of the Parc Christian development as a means to increase city revenues and stimulate the city's economy.

The point was again raised by Alderman Logan that the business at hand was the acceptance or rejection of the Planning Commission's report. The mayor expressed concern over "keeping the doors open" for the developers and questioned whether acceptance would eliminate the submittance of a new proposal.

After conferring among themselves the mayor and aldermen decided to, in the words of Mayor Saucier, "act without acting" and accepted the Commission's report without taking any action on it.

Saucier then asked the developers to submit their revised proposal to the Planning Commission and was assured by LeFevre that this would be done after consulting with the engineers involved.

The Planning Commission is scheduled to meet again next Thursday.

Garbage in your living room, an economical decorating hint

You can furnish an entire living room with sleek modern lamps, tables, chair and sofa for a mere $100.

Rubbish, you say—and you'd be exactly right. It's rubbish that Bay St. Louis resident Bayne Dickinson and 23 other first-year students at Tulane University's School of Architecture have recycled into furniture that's attractive, sturdy and cheap.

Bayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bayne Dickinson of Bay St. Louis, designed one of the most attention-getting pieces in the whole furniture display, a floor lamp that's literally made of garbage.

Bayne created the lamp from a garbage can three filled garbage bags, "because Professor Griffin said to use discarded materials and that's about as discarded as you can get."

Piled atop the garbage can are three bags. The top bag is split, apparently ready to spill milk containers and soft-drink cans, and inside the milk containers are light bulbs and fixtures. Crowning the whole design, which the students have dubbed "Pick-Up Day," is a garbage-can lid.

The lamp, which cost $7.90 to construct, presented its own unique difficulties "because the janitors kept trying to haul it out of the building as real garbage," Bayne said.

"But I'm not too sure what I'm going to do with it," he notes. "I don't really think my mother would like it in her living room."

In addition to the garbage floor lamp, the first room set-up also features a sofa made of two 55 gallon barrels welded together with fronts cut away and the space strung with netting to form a hammock-like seat ($45); end-tables of rolled-up painted newspaper ($19-pr); one lamp made from a fire extinguisher ($2.90) and another created from soft-drink bottles and straws ($7.81).

Completing the room arrangement displayed in the lobby of the architecture school is a "coffee table" made from an old double sink. Rescued from an local junkyard, it stands on legs of pipe with wildflowers planted in the two sinks themselves, while the sideboards do table duty. And the price? An unbelievable $2.95.

By design, the sleek "rubbish" furniture looks as if it would fit nicely into a modern, if slightly unusual, decorating scheme. And the total cost of all the furnishings? In the room arrangement is only about $100, according to Brand Griffin, assistant professor of architecture at Tulane and originator of the three-week furniture design. "I was really impressed with the students' ingenuity," Griffin says, noting that most of the designers scoured New Orleans junkyards to find materials for their recycled furniture.

Corps plan revealed to create Bayou Cadet deep water channel

During Tuesday's meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Port and Harbor director Wilson Webre reported on a plan submitted by the Corps of Engineers to create a deep water channel inside Bayou Cadet.

He said construction would take place four miles from the intercoastal waterway where the channel would be deepened to create the 800 foot long, 300 foot wide harbor. Total cost of the construction Webre said, is $375,000 with the county paying $78,000 of that amount.

The Board voted to await the outcome of a meeting between Webre and the Gulf Fishermen before acting on the proposal.

million acres of grasslands and woodlands in order to produce record corn and wheat crops, plus the second biggest soybean crop in history. At the same time, 2.2 million acres of valuable farmland were lost to other uses. Much of newly-plowed land is vulnerable to erosion, which last year carried off 3.5 billion tons of soil.

MINERALS

Down again. U.S. crude oil production fell to its lowest level since 1966. Estimates of oil reserves have been revised sharply downward by the U.S. Geological Survey, and oil shale remains an economically and environmentally unattractive energy source. The nation suffers from a lack of a national energy policy stressing conservation, recycling and environmental protection. As for development of new sources such as solar and geothermal energy, "research is still lagging on alternative energy sources."

WATER QUALITY

Down again. Although the release of impounded sewage funds has helped ease the problem, some 9,000 communities serving 60 percent of the population will not meet the government's 1977 first stage deadline for a sewage cleanup. Improved monitoring of water pollution has revealed that the problem is much worse than originally believed. Control of nonpoint sources-farm run-off of fertilizer and pesticides, urban run-off, and acids from mining and oil field operations-remains a long-term problem. "The true dimensions of the nation's critical water problems-both quality and quantity-are just now taking shape."

Down again. Seventeen states enacted land use laws, but generally the country continues to grow and develop without coordinated land use planning. The year 1975 saw Congress torpedo a vitally-needed land use bill and a Presidential veto of strip mining legislation. In the next ten years an area larger than the state of New Jersey will be urbanized. A short-lived decline in the U. S. birthrate has apparently come to an end and by July 4 there will be 215 million Americans. "Americans must decide soon the life-style they want for their children," the Federation report observes.

The EQ Index, based in part upon statistics and in part upon the "combined judgment" of NWP experts, has been commended by government officials as a unique, authoritative journalistic evaluation of the "quality of life." It is prepared each year as a special report to Associates Members of the NWP.

Consolidation makes cents

Several interesting conclusions emerged from last month's gathering of school superintendents in Jackson.

Some of these showed a refreshing shift in thinking, with a definite trend away from traditional Mississippi provincialism.

Others however indicated a need for caution and further investigation before any firm recommendations be forwarded to the governor.

In the study of schools' financial needs, including an increase in teachers' salaries, the administrators gave opinion in many key areas. Among these were support for a uniform statewide assessment of property, the expansion of state revenue sharing funds in such a way as to free other funds for school operations, and the management of 16th Section lands by school boards.

The top educators were opposed to any increase in state personal income tax, the abolishment of homestead exemption, or any increase in sales tax. They were split in their opinions concerning the elimination of industrial tax exemptions, and the super consolidation of school districts.

Two other items however, did get the nod of approval. Both are to be viewed with extreme caution.

Firstly, the superintendents favored granting county school districts the same tax setting privileges as municipal districts.

Next was the thought that counties be permitted to raise the mill rate from 25 to 30 mills.

Both these suggestions are fraught with danger, and designed to apply further crippling levies to the collapsing taxpayer.

It does not take a skilled mathematician to figure the additional revenues to be generated by the application of a further mill to the tax structure, nor in the multiplication of this amount by five.

It does take a skilled mathematician to figure how this sum is to come from people whose budget is already stretched beyond the limit in support of a frequently decreasing, but ever more costly, array of public services. Personal incomes are facing rising utilities and food costs as well.

Further, it does not take any thought at all to realize that if the mill maximum were raised, the supervisors of most counties would consider it as an edict from the state capital, and feel "honor bound" to vote the maximum hike, albeit not necessarily for the purpose proposed by the educators.

The answer, we feel, lies in the split opinion issue - consolidation.

Mississippi has 82 counties in which schools operate under five different types of school districts.

Hancock County has a population of 21,260 as of January, 1976, according to the Gulf Regional Planning Commission. Of this total 6,854 live in Bay St. Louis, 4,614 in Waveland, and 9,732 in the unincorporated area of the county.

For this total we have two, separate public school systems, one financed in part by taxes from the municipalities, and the other in part from county taxes. In addition, we hear an increasing rumble to form yet another municipal system, for a triplication of services and administrative costs.

The municipal system has a budget this year of $1,543,637. The county's budget is about $1,600,000 for a combined total of 3,143,637.

Instead of perpetuating the existing dual system and possibly adding a third, each complex and expensive to operate, and each offering different courses and standards, and in the process taking the easy solution to cost increases with higher mills and taxes, Hancock County, through consolidation could lead the state in cost trimming, and at the same time advance financial inducement to teachers and institute a better curriculum to all its students, in the maximum utilization of school buildings.

The objections to this course of action are obvious.

Let us now see the application of constructive thinking, talent, and true administrative ability to overcome these objections, and provide the necessary draft enabling legislation to bring about educational advancement within at least, this county, all within the prevailing tax structure. (J-1)

Report from the House

with Rep. J.P. Compretta

The Mississippi legislature closed out its sixth week Friday.

With almost two weeks left before the Feb. 25 deadline for introduction of bills other than appropriations or revenue measures, a total of almost 1400 bills or resolutions have been introduced. It appears that we will match the average of 2500 bills per session. Work in the various committees continues on a daily basis and the calendars of both houses are beginning to reflect the committee efforts.

I have been appointed to the following committees: (1) Judiciary 'B' (2) Education (3) Conservation and water resources (4) Pensions, social welfare and public health. I feel that these committees will handle many significant bills that will be introduced this session.

Among the Bills passing the house this past week was one giving 18 to 21 year-olds the right to contract for personal property.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,

(An) article from the Times Picayune Feb. 13 (made) reference to the dumping of waste by the E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Company.

You will note they had planned on dumping this waste into the Gulf of Mexico, however officials of the Gulf States halted this waste dumping. Evidently, officials of the different Mississippi Committees were not included when this decision was made.

Even though the states of Texas, Louisiana, and Florida will not allow DuPont to dump waste 250 miles off their coastline, the Committees of Mississippi, such as the Mississippi Marine Resources Council, the Mississippi Air & Water Pollution Control, and the EPA have given them permits allowing them to dump in the small area of the Bay of St. Louis (approximately five to seven miles square).

Waste is waste and DuPont will dump into the Bay of St. Louis 2.2 million gallons of waste containing vanadium, zinc, mercury, salt, etc.

I recently noted on television that Biloxi, Gulfport, Bay St. Louis, and Waveland now have sewerage disposal systems so they will not pollute the Gulf of Mexico. Yet the Committees of the State of Mississippi are willing to let DuPont pollute the small area of the Bay of St. Louis and the Gulf of Mexico.

It would seem to me it would be in order for the EPA, Mississippi Marine Resources Council and the Mississippi Air & Water Pollution Control to re-examine these permits before allowing this to happen.

Sincerely,
Gerald Kennedy, Jr.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to Patrolman Emmitt Ellis who, single handed, caught a man with the TV and radio stolen from the home of one of our widowed senior citizens.

This poor elderly lady was taken home from our Center to find her door broken in and the TV and radio gone. She immediately called Mrs. Jushaway at the Center and told her about it. Mrs. Jushaway notified the police and Patrolman Ellis, who was in early as usual for his shift, went to investigate. He tracked the footprints out the back door into the woods and caught the man with the TV. He struggled with him and got him handcuffed as we watched and we called into the station for assistance. Chief Carbonette and Asst. Chief Williams both came out immediately and booked the man and took him to jail.

Let's hope the courts can do their job now and he won't be out doing this same thing to another poor old person, or to you or me.

Thank you BAY ST. LOUIS POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Yours truly,
Eve McDonald
Director, Senior Citizen Center

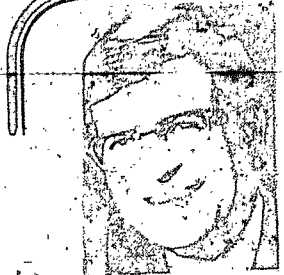

This bill was reported favorably out of Judiciary 'B' Committee to the house for consideration. The bill gives these young people credit rights previously held only by those 21 and older. I voted for this bill. I know many young people in our county who are either single or married, between the ages of 18 and 21, who are responsible citizens and have good jobs, but cannot purchase personal property such as a refrigerator for their homes without having a note or contract co-signed by someone 21 years of age or older.

A constitutional amendment introduced this week, which I co-authored, will move the inauguration of the Governor to the second week of the legislative session instead of the third Tuesday now required by state law. If the resolution is passed by the house and senate, it will go before the Mississippi voters for approval. This measure could save more than $30,000 in taxpayers' money and speed up the legislative process in the state.

If anyone has any questions about pending legislation or needs information you can reach me through the Capitol switchboard. The telephone number is 949-7321 or my mailing address is as follows: Rep. J. P. Compretta, House Chambers, New Capitol Building, P. O. Box B-1, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

I promise to try to keep you informed of legislative news and happenings in Jackson.

GOOD NEWS

Good news isn't really all that hard to find - if you happen to live in South Mississippi.

If you're new to our area of the country and haven't really discovered how lucky you are, all you need to do is look around you. Look at our economy, our natural resources, our industries. Look at our people.

The facts - the cold, hard statistics - bear me out. South Mississippi is a great place to live.

Mississippi in 1974 paid $1,821,144,000 in federal taxes. That came to 0.68 percent of the national total, good enough for 33rd place in the nation. If you're interested in stacking us up against the rest of the nation.

That same year, 1974, Mississippi GOT BACK $3,668,934,000 in federal outlays. That came to 1.36 percent of the total U.S. outlays, good enough for 26th place.

It looks even better when you break it down into congressional districts. The average Fifth Congressional District resident earns roughly $1,000 ABOVE the state median income and has almost two more years education than the average state resident.

The Fifth District has an impressive breakdown of workers: 42 percent white collar, 43 percent blue collar, 13 percent service, and two percent farm. Our median voting age is a youthful 40.

In the last two weeks alone, my Washington office has announced approval of: a $60,000 FHA grant and a $160,000 loan for a rural water system in Jones County; a $260,000 FHA grant and a $820,000 loan for a water system improvement in Pearl River County; and a $5,750 National Endowment for the Arts grant for renovation work at the Jefferson Davis Beauvoir Shrine in Biloxi.

On February 5 we were informed that the Department of Defense has requested $9.1 million for use during the 1977 Fiscal Year at military installations in the Fifth Congressional District. The requests included $7.4 million for the Naval Oceanographic Office headquarters in Hancock County; $1,350,000 for Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi; and $264,000 for the Seabee Center at Gulfport. The only other Mississippi facility to be earmarked-for funds was Columbus Air Force Base.

And take a look at the Gulf Islands National Seashore, which includes a chain of islands right off the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The Seashore pulled in $1,530,525 in FY 74; $2,613,190 in FY 75; and a whopping $4,059,367 for FY 76!

Our natural beauty doesn't stop with our water and islands. We have the DeSoto National Forest in 10 of our 12 counties and those forest lands generated $621,311.38 in income for those counties when the National Forest Service divided the money they had collected from the sale and use of National Forest products and services during 1975.

Not to be overlooked is Camp Shelby near Hattiesburg, one of the most modern National Guard camps in the nation. And don't forget about the development of the Tallahala Reservoir and the flood protection, drinking water and water recreation it will provide when completed. Incidentally, this year's Presidential budget includes $3 million for the Tallahala Reservoir.

Our businesses and industries range from shipbuilding on the coast to Masonite in Jones County, and Hercules in Forrest County. Those industries have been instrumental in keeping our district's unemployment rate among the lowest in the entire nation.

Finally, we should all be very proud of our fine educational institutions, which include some of the best junior college districts in the nation as well as an outstanding university in Hattiesburg.

That should be enough to cheer you up. We have a good life in the Fifth Congressional District and we're proud of it.

BICENTENNIAL

"Two! Four! Six! Eight!
"Who do we appreciate?"
That pep rally chant is about as old as the crack in the Liberty Bell, but the tone rings clear.

We appreciate our Volunteer Americans who are inclined to say: "What can I do for my country?" as sincerely as we are "turned off" by those who ask "What's in it for ME?"

We appreciate The Christ Episcopal Elementary School here in Bay St. Louis because they have a ceremony every school day in the year where The American Flag is raised and the Pledge of Allegiance is spoken. They do it with reverence, too. We appreciate every public and private place within our county where the flag is displayed - a symbol of Faith in America. An endorsement of the ideals upon which this country was founded.

We appreciate every hour and minute and day given by our public spirited citizens who devote themselves to the improvement of quality of life for our people.

We appreciate the true statesman who asks How will this best serve my country - my community, rather than the politician who asks "How many votes will this gain for ME?"

We appreciate the City-County Library with its devoted staff ever ready to assist anyone who walks through the doors.

We appreciate our members of THE HANCOCK COUNTY HISTORIC SOCIETY who unselfishly devote themselves to obtaining records for the posterity of our county's prominent place in the annals of pioneer settlements.

We appreciate our Hancock County Chamber of Commerce ever planning toward wise promotion of our vast natural resources. Ever mindful of our particular needs as a young and small community.

We appreciate our churches, large and small, with their untiring dedication to instilling better ethics - gentler people - nobler souls.

We appreciate every school and every faculty member that is dedicated to the task of turning out well-balanced and useful citizens. Their problems are legion. Their questions many. The answers few and far apart.

We appreciate our unsung heroes - the garbage collector, the man who patches the pot holes - plants the flowers - obeys the leash laws - doesn't contribute to the ever-increasing problem of accumulated litter - We appreciate every individual who knows that our community has class distinction - either you contribute to solving the problem - or you are a part of the problem!

State wagon train chairman, Tom Watts, said this week "Although the wagon train is a localized community event, it is also a National Bicentennial event."

Watts said outsiders were welcomed. For safety reasons and for the normal progression of the train, it is requested that all persons wishing to join the train register the evening before, during the breakfast break or at the lunch stop.

"We will try to afford every protection for these riders," Watts said, "however, it should be understood they are responsible for their own bedding, food, and care of the animal." Horse clubs or individuals are welcome.

As a salute to the nation, oxen owners, and owners of wagons have volunteered to bring their cattle that the younger generation may have a vivid recollection of the way our country was built and developed by early settlers who crossed trails, endured privations and discomforts to settle a new country.

Men with the wagon train - some accompanied by their wives - will traverse West-to-East - averaging three to four miles per hour to reach the "Cradle of Liberty" and deposit our signed reaffirmation of faith in our country. Volunteers All. Footing their bills, taking time off from jobs, traveling at horse-pace the great distance across the states they depict the true spirit of '76 - sons and daughters of American Pioneers.

Young, handsome and horse-knowledgeable Ned Fleming wearing his ten-gallon hat and hip-huggin' britches hails from Summit, Pennsylvania. He is the Southeastern States advance coordinator. His job is to coordinate local activities with the scheduled wagon train events, he has traveled through Texas, Louisiana and is now doing his tour of duty in Mississippi.

March could bring comet sighting in Mississippi

A new comet should become visible to the naked eye for Mississippians and others in the Northern Hemisphere between March 3 and March 10.

The best time to view the comet will be about two hours before sunrise and it should be visible on the eastern horizon.

"Comet West, presently over the Southern Hemisphere, will not be seen by Mississippians until after it rounds the sun and heads back out of our solar system," said Dr. William E. Hughes, chairman of the physics and astronomy department at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Though not expected to be an extravaganza of fireworks in the sky, Comet West is predicted to reach naked-eye visibility during early March. "It may be brighter or dimmer than predicted," said Dr. Hughes, "but even if it does not reach its predicted brightness, it still will be an interesting sight in binoculars or a small telescope."

By the end of the second week in March, the comet is expected to have dimmed considerably, "but by then we will have the advantage of it appearing against a dark sky about two hours before sunrise," added Dr. Hughes.

Comet West was named for its discoverer, Richard West of the European Southern Observatory in Geneva, Switzerland.

"According to a theory by the Dutch astronomer Jan Oort," said Dr. Hughes, "comets were formed with the solar system about five billion years ago. They reside in a band, called the Oort Cloud, which extends out in space a distance equaling 1,000 solar systems.

"This band may contain one billion comets. When one is perturbed somehow, it 'falls' into our solar system and orbits around the sun. The periods (time of return) of comets vary from about three years to about 30 million years."

You can't see the ship, but thanks to the Navy, it can see you.

Navy men have a history of making discoveries. Like radar. On September 27, 1922, while two Navy men, A. H. Taylor and L. C. Young, were sending radio messages across the Potomac, a ship sailed between the two points, and they discovered a basic principle which led to the subsequent development of radar. The significance of radar in the growth and development of the world is history in itself. And as the United States, celebrating its Bicentennial, the Navy is proud to recognize those Navy men who have contributed to its historic growth. More and more good men are joining the Navy, and carrying on our tradition of progress. You could be one of them. In the century since the invention of the telephone, few other single inventions have had such a dramatic - and positive - impact on the life-style of Americans. And possibly no other industry has made a more dedicated effort to harness technology and make it work for the people.

Combining the research of Bell Laboratories, the manufacturing know-how of Western Electric, the interstate long distance service of Long Lines, and our own local and long distance service has produced the most efficient, most economic telephone system anywhere in the world.

This system has provided:
-- the largest electronic switching machine, called the No. 4 ESS, which handles up to 550,000 long distance calls hourly. The first one went into service January 16, 1976, and makes service even faster, more reliable.

-- the Bell System's domestic satellite system, COMSTAR, which goes into operation this year, too. It will lend additional capacity and flexibility to our nationwide, long distance network.

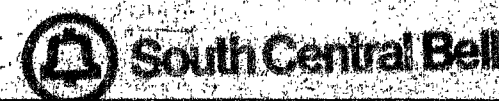

-- innovations such as the Transaction Telephone, developed to expedite credit transactions involving stores and banks. This telephone is going to be a key element in the rapidly emerging "cashless society."

However, we don't just plug new systems into our communications network because they're new, glamorous, and promising. Before we put any new system to work, it has to prove itself -- that is, it must be technically and economically feasible, and demonstrate the ability to satisfy a genuine need better than anything else available.

If you're planning to dig, call Repair Service first -- there's no charge and you may not be able to after yard! If there's any doubt whether there's a buried cable located in your area, a telephone employee will be glad to check it out for you. The number is listed in the front pages of your telephone directory. Also, we'd appreciate your reminding any contractors working on your property to notify Repair Service before they start digging or excavating. This can help prevent telephone service interruptions and you won't be taking chances of cutting your self or your neighbors off from such vital emergency services as the police, fire department, or medical aid. Thanks.

Tax return filing lags behind 1975

William Daniel, district director of the Internal Revenue Service for Mississippi, reports that Mississippians are not filing their Federal tax returns as early as they did last year.

As of Feb. 6, 115,212 Federal income tax returns have been filed compared with 146,999 during the same period in 1975.

The Internal Revenue Service Center in Atlanta reports that about 40 percent of the returns received to date have been processed. Of the number of processed returns, 18,562 refunds totaling almost $8,200,000 have been issued.

According to Daniel, the use of the pre-printed name and address label furnished by the IRS to taxpayers greatly reduces the processing time for returns and reduces errors.

Robert Gorman, 30, St. George St. in Bay St. Louis has been charged with burglary, grand larceny, and resisting arrest in connection with a Feb. 13 burglary at the home of Mrs. Emma Wright, 422 Labat St.

According to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Billy Carbonette, Gorman was apprehended in the woods near Mrs. Wright's home. Ptn. Emmett Ellis was the investigating officer.

Three citizens hand radios were stolen from the owner's automobiles during apparently unrelated robberies.

Thieves broke into two cars which were parked behind Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church the morning of Feb. 15. Chief Carbonette, who is investigating both of the incidences, said the stolen radios belong to Walter Courtault and Tammy Marsh.

The third theft was reported by Terry Felder on Feb. 17. Felder said a citizens hand radio and two speakers were stolen from his truck which was parked in front of Bay Royale Apartments.

Two juveniles reportedly broke into a home located at 1501 Dumber Ave. Chief Carbonette said entry was made through a rear window but nothing was stolen.

Alerted by a burglar alarm at Hime's Auto Parts, investigating officers found that a rear window had been broken. Involved in the investigation were Ptn. Altior, Benoit, Jeff Davis, and Ellis.

Tape players continue to be a favorite target for thieves. Thomas Hoda reported that a tape player and speakers were stolen from his automobile, which was parked on Ballentine St., during the night of Feb. 14.

Mickey Dancran, 165 Fox Dr., said items had been stolen from his home and utility shed Feb. 17. Missing from his home are five guns, a stereo and a tape player. Two saws were stolen from the shed. Chief Carbonette reported the theft under investigation.

The third accident occurred Feb. 14. Ptn. Hars said both cars were only damaged slightly.

Three automobile accidents were reported during the period Feb. 11-Feb. 18.

On Feb. 11, Michael P. Askey was attempting to park his car in front of the Majik Mart at Washington and U. S. Highway 90 when his brakes failed causing him to strike the building. There were minimal damage according to investigating officers Ellis and Davis.

A two car accident Feb. 13 on Spanish Acres Drive resulted in the arrest of David Keeling, 22, Bay St. Louis, for driving under the influence and leaving the scene of an accident. Acc. Chief Douglas Williams and Ptn. Ellis were the investigating officers.

The third accident occurred Feb. 14. Ptn. Hars said both cars were only damaged slightly.

USM-Gulf Park offers night nursing course

To assist with improving the quality of health care and to meet the increasing demands of nurses on the Gulf Coast, the School of Nursing at the University of Southern Mississippi will offer a course, the Conceptual Framework in Nursing, during the spring quarter at USM-Gulf Park. The course, Nursing 601, will be taught by Mrs. Cora Balmat from 6:30-10 p.m. on Thursday, according to Dr. John Burch, director of academic affairs at USM-GP. The only prerequisite is the B.S. degree. The course is required for the Graduate Studies Program in Nursing at USM and is applicable to the M.S. degree in nursing.

Correction

According to Kerry Crosby, director of the Gulf Coast Mosquito Control Commission, the southern house mosquito which carries St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE) can directly transmit the disease to humans. An article which appeared in Sunday's edition of the Echo said the disease was transmitted only by birds which had been bitten by the insect.

Krewe of Nereids rolls into Waveland Sunday

Dukes

EARL J. BREAUX

The Krewe of Nereids will roll onto the streets of Waveland this Sunday, Feb. 22, to pay tribute to "Hawaii, our 50th State".

The 2 p.m. parade will be led this year by New Orleans musician, Grand Marshal Ronnie Kole. The 16 New Orleans style floats will depict the many islands and natural resources symbolic of the islands.

King Nereus X, Lucien Gex, Jr., is a Waveland attorney active in civic and cultural activities of the Gulf Coast area. He is married to the former Nancy Gould and they have four children, Lucien III, Leslie, Laurie, and Nancy.

The dukes to King Nereus X are Dr. Earl J. Breaux, Martin O. Blanchard, Pard Handshoe, Michael W. Cooksey, Kenneth Fayard, and Arthur J. Chapman III.

Pages to Queen Doris X are Miss Michael Lynn Ashman, Miss Letitia Dawn Ortiz, Philip Hays Hart and Samuel Drake Warman.

As in last year's parade, the Maids will be introduced riding atop six mini-floats. However, the identity of Queen Doris X and her maids will remain a secret.

Parade Marshal, Reginald Fayard, will line up the parade to begin at the corner of Waveland Ave. at Central. The parade will proceed along Central to Lafitte Dr. and down Lafitte to Beach Blvd. From Beach Blvd., the parade will turn on Coleman Ave. where the King and Queen will toast and receive the key to the city. From Coleman, the parade will turn back on Central and return to the starting point.

The Captain of Nereids produces and directs the Ball and Parade. Costumes for the Queen, Court and Captain are designed and executed by Carter Church of New Orleans.

The Ball sets and floats are designed by Edward Scanlan. Choreographer for the Krewe is Doug Douglas and choreographer for special Hawaiian dances was Wanda Castella. Narrator for the Ball is Norris Fitzmorris, and music is provided by the Harry Morel Orchestra.

One thousand special 10th Anniversary doubloons have been minted for this special year. Collectors can write to Krewe of Nereids, P. O. Box 111, Waveland, Miss. for information on purchasing.

Schmidt-Myers vows said in candlelight ceremony

Cheryl Ann Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans M. A. Schmidt of Bay St. Louis and Dorance Walter Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Myers of Pearlinton, were united in marriage in an evening ceremony Feb. 8 at Clermont Harbor Methodist Church.

Walter L. Portor, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mixed white flowers and ferns decorated the church and candles surrounded the altar. Miss Anna Joe Perice was the vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown of white lace and net. Her fingertip length veil was topped with a cap of white lace, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Mary Weidenbacher of New Orleans attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Karen Cavalier of Clermont Harbor and Miss Faith Wheeler of Bay St. Louis.

The attendants wore formal gowns in pastel shades of yellow, blue and pink. Their headpieces were made of carnations and net and they carried carnation bouquets the color of their gowns.

Eddie Parsons, Shoreline Park, was best man. Groomsmen were Thaddeus and Harry Grey, both of Lakeshore.

A reception followed in the bride's parents home, which was decorated with white crepe paper and wedding bells. The bride's parents, sisters Amy and Helen, and brother Albert assisted in receiving.

Historical handicraft

Mrs. Neva M. Moran who now lives in Biloxi but "comes from good Hancock County stock" is justifiably proud of this log cabin design quilt which has been in her family for over 65 years. Mrs. Moran won the quilt-top, made by her aunt, Mrs. Josephine Moran Martin, in a raffle when she was one-year old. It was not put together as a quilt until 1972 when Mrs. Moran and Kila residents Mrs. Carl Moran Sr. and Mrs. Arthur Koenen quilted it on a frame belonging to Mrs. Moran's mother. There are 3,484 one inch blocks in the red, green, and white quilt, and according to Mrs. Moran, tobacco sacks were used as fabric for the white sections.

District Eight well represented

Hancock teams plan dual run at South title

Not one-but two-Hancock teams have a crack at the South Mississippi Class A basketball title this year.

The charge for the title will be led by Coach Roland Ladner's Hancock North Central Hawks - District Eight Class A champions.

Close on their heels and maybe even the tournament dark horse favorite will be District Eight runnerup Bay High School, coached by Mike Necaise.

The South Mississippi tournament, which is being held for the first time on the Gulf Coast this year, promises to showcase some fine basketball teams from Districts Five, Six, Seven and Eight.

The tournament gets underway Wednesday night in Bay High's gymnasium with District Five champion Southeast Lauderdale meeting District Seven runnerup Monticello at 7 p.m. followed by District Five runnerup Heidelberg and District Seven champ Prentiss at 8:15 p.m.

Thursday night, Bay High meets St. Joseph's of Jackson in the 7 p.m. opener followed by Hancock North Central and Velma Jackson from District Six in the second game. Wednesday and Thursday night's winners advance to play Friday night with the title, being decided Saturday at 8:45 p.m.

A consolation game to decide third place will be played at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, between Friday night's losing teams.

The top three place teams advance to the state Class A finals which will be held in Jackson later this month.

For Tiger coach Mike Necaise the tournament "is being played under somewhat less than ideal conditions."

Necaise has had four starters out this week sick with flu and unable to practice.

"This really hurts when you finally reach this point after three long building years and then have the good Lord do this," Necaise said. Tuesday while lone starter Allison Favre warmed up with the rest of the Tiger bench.

Necaise said he was not counting the Tigers out, but admitted the lack of practice time would have some probable effect on the club.

"I know the group I've got this year is going to give everything they've got," said Necaise "but it takes more than 80 percent when you play in this level of competition. Only the good ones (teams) make it to South and only the really good ones make it to State."

This will be Bay High's first return to South Mississippi play since 1967 when Necaise was a senior under former coach Wilmer Seymour.

The Tigers who will face St. Joseph of Jackson in the second round of play Thursday night, made the South tournament by virtue of placing second in District Eight play at Brooklyn last Saturday. Hancock won both boys' and girls' titles, defeating Bay St. Louis 65-54 in boys' play and Purvis 65-26 for the girls' title.

The Tiger's Allison Favre and Mike Thomas as well as Hancock's Bobby Seals and Guy Necaise were named to the All District team.

St. Joseph's brings a 27-3 record into the tournament and is "well coached and well disciplined" according to Necaise.

For Hawk Coach Roland Ladner, whose teams have appeared in 13 consecutive South tournaments winning four championships in 1965, 1966, 1969 and 1972, this year's tournament has extra appeal as the first Gulf Coast hosted South Mississippi tournament.

"We've really been trying for this for a long time," Ladner said this week.

Ladner's Hawks will meet Velma Jackson, runnerup from District Six, in an 8:15 p.m. Thursday night tilt.

This year's South appearance marks the 10th year anniversary of Ladner's 1966 state championship team led by former Hawk and New York Nets star Wendell Ladner.

Ladner's great pro career was ended tragically last year when he was killed in a jet airliner crash while returning to New York.

BULLETIN

Alliston resigns Bay coaching job

Bay Senior High School head football coach Woody Alliston asked this week to be relieved of coaching duties at the school, the Echo learned Wednesday.

Alliston was named head coach in August 1974 to replace former head coach J. E. Loiacano who left to take a head coaching position with the Gulfport East Vikings.

Alliston declined comment on why he was submitting his resignation, but there was some speculation that the pressure of two losing seasons and "lack of support" may have been contributing reasons.

Bay Senior High principal Robert Magee stated that Alliston had simply requested to be relieved of his coaching duties so that he might return to a teaching position at the school.

Alliston's appointment as head coach caused a storm of controversy initially among some elements of the community who felt senior assistant coach Willie Bradley should have been given the job.

Bradley, who is black, said at the time that he had been offered the job after charges of racial discrimination surfaced. But doubt remained as to who had been offered the coaching position first. Bradley remained on as head coach of the senior high girls team.

"I feel like I was treated unfairly by the press," Alliston said Wednesday as his reason for the no comment position. Alliston said he had been misquoted and the object of a lot of bad publicity because of his appointment.

"I just hope you (the press) treat the person who comes behind me better," Alliston said.

Magee said Wednesday no official action had been taken on Alliston's resignation, but acceptance by the municipal school board is only a formality.

Magee admitted Wednesday that he was already in the process of searching for a new head coach and promised that he would have someone to recommend "within one week."

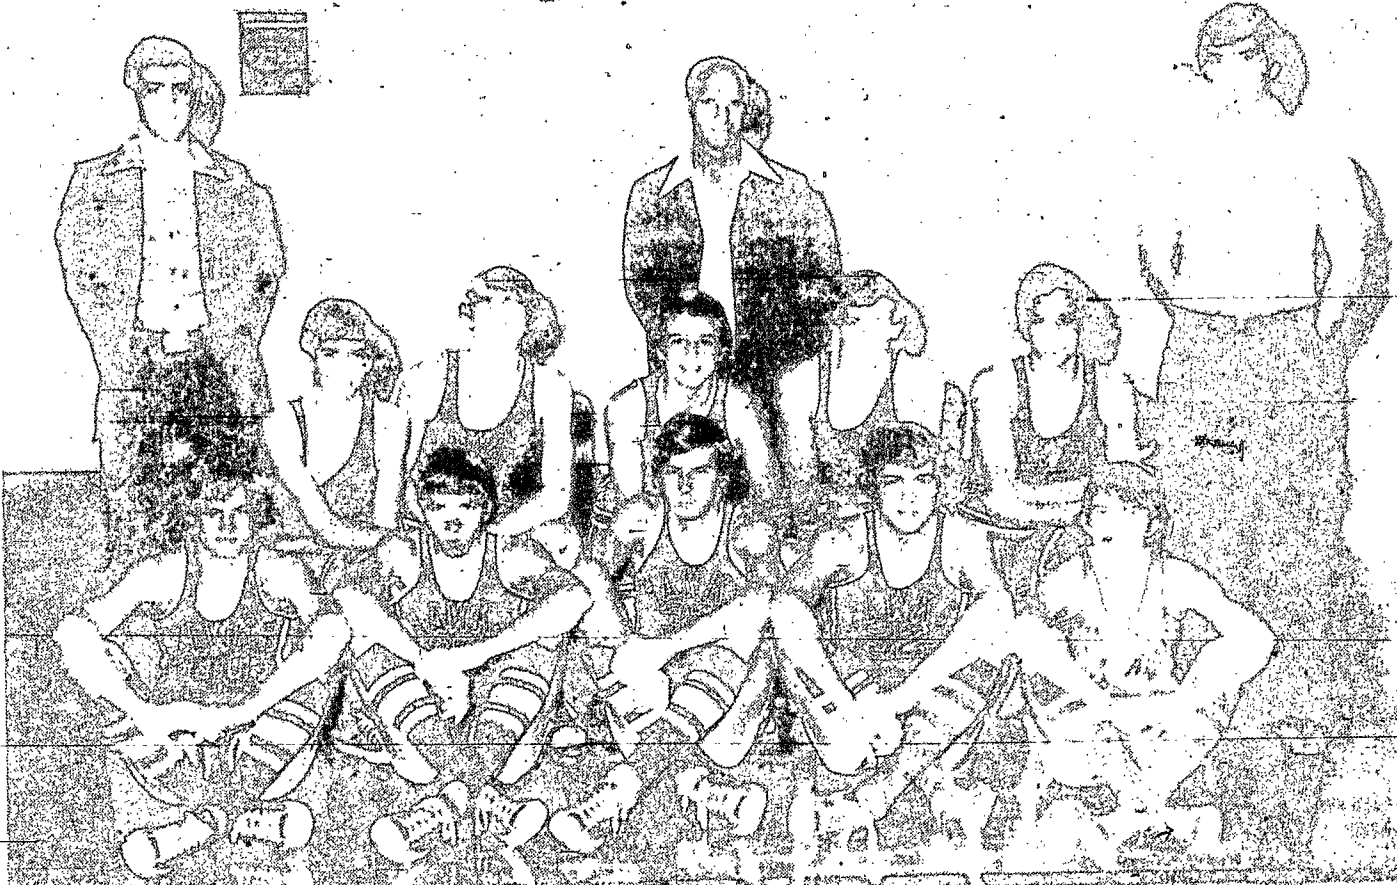

If normal procedures are followed Magee will be the person who will make a nomination to city school Superintendent Joe McCulloch and the school board as a replacement for Alliston.

There was no comment about where the new coach would be chosen from but Magee said no one within the school system had so far expressed an interest in the job.

A great deal of support will probably be thrown behind Junior High Coach Billy Rhodes however whose team finished the year with a 9-1 record, including an 8-0 win over St. John in the first Mallet Bowl.

Rhodes said Wednesday night in a telephone interview that he would definitely be interested in the job if offered but said he had not as yet been contacted.

During his two year stint as Tiger head coach, Alliston compiled records of 3-6 and 3-7 in what were termed "building years" following the loss of such players as All State nose guard Gilbert Whavers, All Conference running back Sam Piazza, and All Conference lineman Ed Porter. The Tigers compiled an 8-2 record in Loiacano's last year grabbing a bid to the Stone County Pickle Bowl.

South A ticket support needed

Besides hoping that their respective teams capture a South State Class A title this week, Hancock North Central Coach Roland Ladner and Bay High Coach Mike Necaise have something else in common.

Both are keeping their fingers crossed that the first South A tournament to be played in District 8 will be a huge financial success.

"This is something we hope the fans will really get behind," Coach Ladner said Tuesday while the Hawks went through drills at the Bay High gym, scene of the tournament.

"We're fortunate to have two Hancock County teams in this tournament and we hope the public will come out and give their support to both of them when they play," said Ladner.

Districts five, six, seven, and eight are represented in the South tournament which begins Wednesday night, Feb. 18 and continues through Saturday, Feb. 21.

Coach Ladner, whose Hancock teams have made 13 consecutive appearances in the South State tournament, knows what he's talking about when he speaks of the support the South and North State tournaments have drawn in the past.

"There isn't any," Ladner said Tuesday. "I've seen some South State tournaments where they couldn't even fill up two sections of bleachers."

"Now," said Ladner, "the district commissioners are becoming concerned about holding the tournaments in supporting areas."

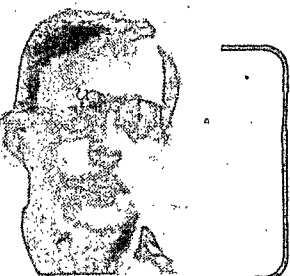

An example in point, says Ladner is the net profits of last year's South State tournament at Brookhaven. Total gate of the four day tournament was only around $1000. Hancock ended up $500 in the hole after expenses.

"Bay High can draw more than that with its own invitational tournament," said Ladner.

"The commissioners are realizing that the population shift is more to the coast and that tournaments in places like Gulfport, Pascagoula and Moss Point are well attended."

Necaise and Ladner are hoping for a gate of about $5,000 for the tournament in Bay St. Louis.

"We want all the local people to come out for the games, regardless of whether Hancock or Bay High is playing that night," says Ladner.

Earlier Florida shot down the high flying Vols 72-69 in Gainesville Saturday. The Vols' loss Monday night puts Alabama in the SEC driver's seat with an 11-2 record. Tennessee fell to 10-3. Elsewhere in the SEC, reports still trickle in that the area may fall soon for Coach Bob Jarvis of the Ole Miss Rebels, who have yet to put together an SEC conference win this season. The Rebels are 0-12 in the league and 4-17 overall. After the Rebs 76-66 loss to Mississippi State last week, some members of the crowd were heard taunting Jarvis with "Bye, Bye, Bob," and "Bob, that's 11 in a row"...The Bay High baseball team opens its 1976 schedule with Harrison Central in a game at Harrison next Mar. 17, at 2 p.m.

Magnolia Boy's Town capsules state history

Magnolia Boys' Town is building a time capsule to contain a detailed county by county historical survey of the State of Mississippi in the year 1976.

Director Henry Bucklew said, "We have already accumulated historical material on several counties and our state, and have had the project approved by the State bicentennial committee and our local committee in Laurel and Jones County."

The project will be completed by Christmas in order to add a complete story of how Mississippi celebrated the Bicentennial.

Those who would like to help are urged and invited to write Henry Bucklew, P.O. Box 608, Laurel, Miss.

HERE'S FOUR REASONS WHY I CAN MAKE YOU A GREAT DEAL ON THE CHEVROLET OF YOUR CHOICE

- 1 IT'S A SLOW TIME OF THE YEAR
February and March are traditionally slow sales months in the automotive industry, but General Motors has to keep 'em moving.
- 2 I'M FULLY STOCKED
They keep 'em moving by building up dealer inventories during February and March for the summer selling months.
- 3 I'M IN A CHEVROLET SALES CONTEST
Then they give their dealers an incentive to follow through by setting sales quotas for each dealer based upon previous sales figures and present stock, which, if met, will result in bonuses for the salesman, and a big bonus for the dealer.
- 4 I CAN WIN A TRIP TO WASHINGTON, D.C.
If I meet my sales quota, which is to sell 90 CARS in 71 DAYS... Chevrolet will send me to Washington, D.C.

My bags are packed...come on in!

New Wildcats

J. C. Arban, head coach and athletic director of Pearl River Junior College, added two St. Stanislaus players to the Wildcats' squad this week. On campus for the signing were Waveland Mayor John Longo, son Tommy, and Daniel Ray, son of Mrs. Agnes Ray of Waveland. Longo, an all-conference lifeguard for the Rockchaws, was named outstanding lifeguard in the Bay's Jaycee Bowl. Ray played tackle for the Rocks.

The weather for the past week has been much better, warmer with no rain. The tides are still not right, falling in the morning and rising in the evening which is not too good for fresh water fishing. However, those going after bass and perch have reported some good catches while fishing in the early morning. Salt water fishing has not been too hot. Of course, a few reds, speckles and other salt water fish are always caught in certain places, especially in deep holes if one knows where they are. As stated before, fishing should get better after this month.

Spent the past week in New Orleans with the family. Didn't get in any fishing and did not do much of anything.

J. Rappolo said that they caught 250 lbs. of Red Fish at Mitchell Keys recently.

Another group who reported catching their share of fish recently were James Theresa, William M. James, John Everard, Monroe James and James Rappolo. They said they had a ball catching 'em. They are all good fishermen and stated they catch them on each trip out.

Randy Porter is strictly a live bait fisherman. He says that is the only way to fish. He claims that Sam Ladner shoots more bull than he catches fish. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Capadon celebrated their 55th year of marriage this month. They are a wonderful couple and celebrated the day with their family.

Bob Seely spent two days in the Bay last week. Didn't get in any fishing. Too busy having a good time. Said the fish weren't biting anyway.

Clayton Seely had a visit from his son Daniel and girl friend last week end. Clayton said he is too busy socializing.

to do any fishing. We all know Clayton.

Was quite a treat seeing John L. Israel after a long time no see. He said he is getting ready to get back to fishing soon. John now lives at the Kiln and does his fishing in that neck of the woods. We'll make that trip shortly John. Come on down fellow.

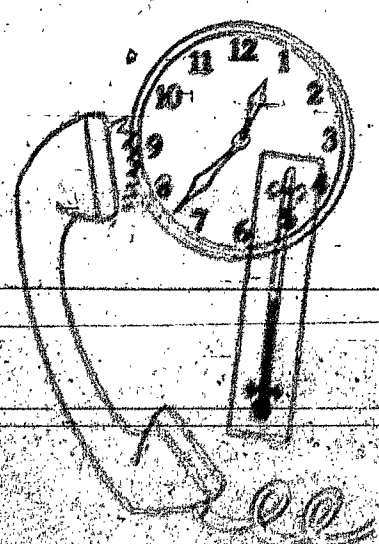

Raymond Hoffman, Jr. and Rick Rehm doesn't claim to do much fishing but are kept busy playing basketball being sponsored by their respective firms. They get a big kick out of that sport.

Sorry to hear of the death of Harold Zimmerman last week. He was one of our best known hunters and fishermen. Had a lot of friends in the sporting field. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Became another great-grandfather one day last week with the birth of Tracy Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Breaux of New Orleans. Mrs. Breaux is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoffman of the big city, New Orleans.

Wrote last week about the crayfish season coming in. Well, I had my first crayfish (Mud Bugs) Saturday at Whitey's Seafood Place on Downman Road, in New Orleans. They had coffee of crayfish, boiled. Sell them in 3 or 6 lb. sacks to eat locally or take out. They went mighty good with beer.

More than 600 students attended the Science Fair Conference Friday at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park, according to L. J. Bellipanni, executive officer of the Mississippi State Science Fair.

Anticipation continues to grow among the railbirds as they await the first official night of schooling to start their evaluation of the 1976 crop of speedsters. Schoolings start Monday, Feb. 23 at 6:30 p.m. and run for six straight nights, starting again on March 1 for another three nights. It was during last year's pre-season activity that one of the largest crowds to ever attend greyhound schoolings, turned out at Mobile. As has been the case in the past, children may attend schoolings when in the company of an adult.

Mobile Greyhound Park will officially start the 1976 season on Saturday, Mar. 6 with a matinee at 1:30 p.m. and again that night with post time at 8 p.m.

Pearl Sisters seeking voices

High school seniors interested in joining the Pearl Sisters, a singing sextet, at Pearl River College should contact George True, director of the group at 795-4281 in Poplarville.

According to True this is not an audition, but an opportunity to discuss the possibility of being a member of the group. Auditions for the Pearl Sisters will be held later on in the year.

The Pearl Sisters were formed just last year, but their engagement list has grown extensively in the last nine months. They have performed in nearly every city in FRC's district, including the Governors Ball in Jackson and at the Buccaneer State Park dedication.

Toward the end of April they will be in concert at the Pearl River Campus. For more information, write George True, director of Music, Pearl River College, Poplarville, Miss. 39470.

Legislation could require label on transfused blood

The State Legislature is currently debating the present legislation which would require a label on every unit of blood transfused in the State, indicating whether the blood comes from a volunteer donor or a paid donor.

At the present time, more than half of the blood transfused in Mississippi hospitals comes from commercial sources, paid donors, according to a 1974 study by the Mississippi Regional Medical Program. The Federal Food and Drug Administration recently published the results of several studies which show that the presence of the hepatitis virus is as much as 10 times greater in blood from paid donors than from volunteer donors.

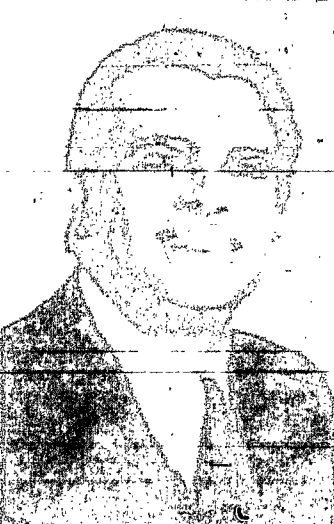

The proposed legislation is being strongly opposed by commercial blood interests in Mississippi. The intent of the proposed legislation is to require a label on the blood so that the patient and doctor will know where it comes from and will have to indicate their preference for volunteer blood. The State of Illinois, which has not such a labeling act, has experienced a decline in the use of commercial blood from approximately 50 percent of the total supply to less than two percent. During that same period, volunteer blood donations have increased so that there has been no shortage of supply.

Furniture refinishing can restore usable items

Thinking about buying new furniture for your home? Now you can furnish your home inexpensively by refinishing furniture that you already have.

Simply designed and durably constructed second hand furniture can also be bought at a reasonable price. Look at auctions, second-hand stores, swap shops and antique shops. Or you can purchase unfinished furniture for this purpose, too.

For instruction in the proper procedures, use the leaflet "Popular Finishes for Furniture" as a guide. Furniture can be refinished in many ways, some of which are best suited for professional use. The methods included in this bulletin are appropriate for beginners as well as those who have had some previous experience.

"Furniture restoration is not difficult, even for a beginner," the bulletin points out. "Time, patience, and care are essential. Your first restoration project can be completely successful."

Your furniture may not need complete refinishing. If this is the case, another bulletin on "Tender Loving Care For Furniture" may still be of value to you as it also contains sections on cleaning of furniture, taking care of brass, hardware, caring for leather and repairing damaged finishes.

To learn step-by-step directions to refinishing wood furniture, or reconditioning old furniture, call 467-5456 for the leaflet on "Popular Finishes for Furniture."

State Bicentennial Commission acts as official clearinghouse

Since the term "Bicentennial" has been attached to so many ventures, many Mississippians might have experienced difficulty deciding just what the Mississippi Bicentennial Commission is and does.

Acting as more than the official sponsor of a mammoth birthday party, the Mississippi Bicentennial Commission has distributed more than $320,000 in federal matching funds to Mississippi communities, colleges, and non-profit organizations for Bicentennial project grants. Also, it has helped four areas secure $440,000 in Title X (Job Impact) funds.

"To qualify for matching grants, all of the projects had to fit under one of the Bicentennial's three theme areas—Heritage '76, Festival USA, or Horizons '76," said Secretary of State Heber Laddner, Bicentennial Chairman.

"For example, under the Heritage '76 theme the historic side of the Bicentennial is stressed through projects such as the writing of local histories, conducting oral history interviews, and preserving historic sites. Festival USA celebrates present-day America through events such as folklife festivals and historic reenactments. Horizons '76 looks to the future through undertaking community beautification projects and improvement of cultural and recreational facilities," explained Laddner.

official Bicentennial communities in Mississippi, we have the chance to reach the goal of involving virtually every Mississippian in the Bicentennial celebration. By contacting your mayor's office, all interested persons can find out details about the Bicentennial projects in their area," said Perry A. Snyder, state Bicentennial director.
